“ Emily, it's been nearly 8 years now and a lot has happened. I just wanna say that I'm sorry for not noticing the signs sooner, if I had I would've said something and maybe you'd still be here. I don't think I can ever forgive your mother for what she did to you. You had a future ahead of you but it was robbed. It's weird that I'm 20 now and was 12 when you died. I miss you a lot and want you back. I'm sorry for what happened.

“ *Dear Emily,
I never met you nor knew you personally. Unfortunately I just learned about you in the news. I am so sorry you had die that way. I know the thirst, the pain and burning under your skin, the fatigue, the not being able to feel rested that you experienced. I am a type I diabetic, just as you were. I am so sorry that you weren't given the medication and opportunity you needed to live. The fact (according to the news stories I read) that you lived 5 years is a testament to you. I hope that you and your spirit have found peace through your passing. I am sorry you were denied the opportunity you deserved to live.*

“ Amber,

I am shocked and heartbroken to have heard about Emily. She was beautiful, brilliant, compassionate, and so much more. She was such a joy to work with- and was always ready to learn and grow. I wish I could be there to grieve and celebrate Emily with the rest of the Evangelical family, but please know that the Bristows are praying for Ethan and you and your family here in California. You've been added to St. Peter's by the Sea's prayer list and I hope God's grace comforts you in the hard days to come.

*With our most sincere condolences,
Doug, Chrissy, Evie, Nora & Abel Bristow*
