“ I met DeAunt when I married her nephew Brad Jones. We referred to each other as DeNiece and DeNephew and DeAunt. She was a very big part of our lives. We made a deep connection from the very start. She helped plan our wedding and even insisted on playing our music for it. She helped guide us on everything that needed to be done. She also helped guide me to the Lord. I always had faith but she instilled the deeper faith that I somehow had lost over the years. She was a truly dedicated woman of God and helped me find my way back to what I thought I had lost. She was a blessing in my life and i will be lost without her. She always praised me on my baking skills and my skills as a decorator of cakes. She was my biggest fan! And until just recently I was informed that she took pictures of every cake, cookie and dessert that i had ever made. She even compiled a book to keep them in and this is quite an honor to me! She was just that type of person. Even after I was having health problems and decided to give up because I didnt feel my work was up to par she would tell me that what I thought wasnt good was still perfect in her eyes. Again that's who she was. Always encouraging me to keep going. She became the other mother to me after I lost my own. I often teased her about being so old but were closer in age as if we could have been sisters. This was our thing. We used to talk every day and most times for hours and now I will miss those talks and all the wisdom she shared. She made me feel as though I had always been a part of the family from the very beginning even though I was not born into it but I was still blood. I shared in her joy as she watched her grandchildren grow and multiple. She was so proud of each and every one of them. She glowed everytime she was near them. Such a blessed woman to have such a beautiful and caring family. She will truly be missed by all who met her. I will miss her greatly but glad she is no longer in pain and that she now sits next to our Heavenly Father. She has now been reunited with the rest of her family that preceded her and I'm sure they are glad to see her. She was often the life of the party! I am blessed to have had you in my life! May you rest in peace DeAunt. Love you forever.

I remember meeting Pam when she and the church she attended sang with our little church . We had some very nice cantatas under the direction of her son, Bryan who was our pastor. There is a lot of talent for music in Pam and her family. She is probably singing away at a piano now. Rest In Peace Pam. You deserve it. My sympathy goes out to her family.
